

Step Carefully: When you visit a state park, it's like going to someone else's home. You probably wouldn't want a porcupine in your hall, a skunk in your kitchen, or snakes and frogs in your bed. They don't want to find you in their beds, either! So please, stay on the trails and obey the park rules. That way, everyone will be happy!